Dear ma'am Caro,

I am the class representative of ICT-106, the class including myself have agreed to file a complaint regarding the subject 6DMATHS. I hope this letter finds you well, we decided to report our major subject professor Mr. Cabrera due to our concern of low grades. The class observed that the activities provided during lessons are relatively easy while the exam content is significantly more difficult and often includes topics we are not properly prepared for. The class faced difficulties in challenging assessment problems because the material was not explained thoroughly nor were challenging practice exercises provided. As a result, many of us feel unprepared and anxious about our performance in the subject. We ask respectfully for an evaluation and improvement of the teaching approach to provide students with improved instruction and lucid explanations alongside pertinent exercises that match test difficulties. The class sees enhanced teaching methods as a way to improve student comprehension which will lead to better academic results. Our professor provided an extra three (3) points to everybody on the exam while failing to offer proper teaching of all exploration topics. The extra points the professor offered as a favor fail to address the main challenge of testing students about content they received an insufficient amount of instruction regarding. This method neither helps students deeply learn their subject nor understand it properly while producing confusions and unjust educational experiences.

Thank you for taking the time to address this concern. We hope for your prompt action on this matter and are open to any discussions regarding possible solutions.

Sincerely,

---
